The most efficient way to HEAT

No drastic changes, we are well-adapted to the everyday routine of school. We spend at least seven hours, sometimes eight or nine maybe even ten hours in a building. A building whose dark hallways and cold classrooms makes it seem shadowy, dreary, mysterious and lifeless. Why even the name Institute turns outsiders away. So that our school seems colder and more impersonal than it really is. From this fatal coldness, warmth rises, even though the thermostats fail to work in the dead of a midwest winter.

The most efficient way to HEAT is neither gas nor electricity nor nuclear energy, but instead the interactions of 1480 students, faculty, and administration. The cooperation of each individual produces something radiant. Like the Student Council's Homecoming, Concert Choir's and Symphonic Band's concerts, (cont.) the theatre's production of Guys and Dolls and The Little Foxes, Service Club's Turnabout and the Hi-Y's and Y-teen's Mardi Gras. These final product have certain by-products of togetherness and friendship which in-turn releases a glow. School spirit is elevated during athletic competition. The dedication and strength of each athlete and the support and enthusiasm of each fan raises the warmth even more. The intense excitement during the football game against Gavit, the boys' swimming team capturing state and the pressure during basketball sectionals inflamed everyone. While sitting in a cold classroom and taking notes from an English class or math class the most important form of energy is generated—education. The gained knowledge of each individual and our willingness to share with each other starts a fever. Through our own desires, interests, God-Given talents, personality and the ability to unite them with others explodes into intense heat. The most efficient way to HEAT is the Noll Community.

Working through a better than average day

In this day in age when gasoline prices are soaring higher and electricity and heating expenses are rising, people are conserving the energy they use. But this is not the case in the Noll Community when warmth and friendship are produced from a cold and dark structure. Heat is always being generated during the average days, however it is the better than average days when the heating system works overtime that produces the most heat.

It rained on the Homecoming parade, but it was the heat of our spirit that kept us dry. And it was the same heat that kept couples warm during Turnabout. It was not just the heat from the stage lights that made the performers produce Guys and Dolls and The Little Foxes, but the warmth of displaying one's talents on stage. Once the snow-filled, below zero winter had passed it became easier to stay warm. Prom was the perfect occasion that represented this idea of heat.

There is no way a human being can survive in a cold environment. The most efficient way to HEAT is a necessity of life to the Noll community.

Warming-up

A day of waiting in lines

Although the floors were freshly waxed the windows cleaned spotless and the walls wiped clear, our school seemed cold and barren. Yet, our school was warming-up when some 1400 students entered the main lobby for Orientation. A few hugs are exchanged while tales of summer adventures are told. As you wait in a line which ends somewhere outside around the building to pay tuition, you find out that your best friend went to California while you went to Southern Indiana for vacation. As you look around the school you see all the people you thought you knew. Like the boy who was always teased about being short is now 6 foot 2 and the shy girl with braces and thick glasses now has her braces off, wears contact lenses, and already has a date for Homecoming. You part company to wait in line for your schedule, that happens to have three Math classes and no lunch. You are then directed to wait in line to see your counselor. The line extends past A building and into B Building. The wait seems like a lifetime. Now that your classes are straightened out you must run to the Cafeteria to buy your books, before it closes, but wait! there awaiting you is another line! You wait and wait, finally you are in buying books only to find out that they are out of the books you need.

The first day of school goes by easily except when you get your locker and no matter how nice you talk to it or how hard you hit it, it still will not open. You enter your first hour class, Algebra, only to find out it is Calculus. Freshmen have it harder than others. They do not know where they are and when they are right next to their classroom a helpful Senior will give them the famous directions, "Oh, it's on the 4th floor." Passing the auditorium while going to lunch one notices that the auditorium is dark and uninhabited. However the lights are turned on and tryouts for "Guys & Dolls" have begun. Before you know it it's dress rehearsal and the school year is already warming-up.

Lights—camera—action

Fall musical—"Guys and Dolls"

The overture starts, lights dim, and the curtains open. Faces and applause of the audience make every grueling hour of work worth while. The play begins and the performers' heart begins to beat faster and faster. Words and songs no longer belong to a script, the words and songs become a part of oneself.

The muscial Guys and Dolls written by Damon Runyon and Frahl Loessar is a tale of gambler Nathan Detroit and his quest to find a place for his floating crap game and to avoid marriage. Nathan was not the only troubled one. Dashing, womanizing gambler Sky Masterson can not believe that he has fallen in love with a young lady from the Save-a-Soul mission. The plot is set and as the story comes to an end, Nathan realizes that his girl Adelaide is more important than his crap game and Sky has won the girl of his dreams.

Weeks of hard work went into the musical production by many dedicated individuals. The production was guided by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lesniak, Mr. Malczak, and Mr. Winterlin. Each individual involved was a in a matter of hours.

Mother nature ruined our parade

But not our spirit

Although the parade was ruined by a sudden thunder storm, the theme of "Wishing Upon A Star . . . Still Came True." The dream was carried out as realistic dragons and fantasized castles filled with beautiful princesses, flying nuns and praying hands, a gigantic rabbit with floppy ears, and students portrayed as characters of Walt Disney paraded down Chicago Ave. followed by many decorated cars and bicycles. It all started many moons ago . . .

Throughout the summer work sessions dreams were tranformed into reality like magic, Chairpersons Donna Cichon, Angie DeLeon, and Karen Russell worked diligently to create a fantasy atmosphere where dreams would come true. Work sessions of painting and preparing the enchanted forest also took place everyday in front of the student council office after school until everything was complete. Spirit Week enabled students to dress as Disney characters, princes and princesses and imaginery characters from the past.

As the parade journeyed into the fieldhouse, the dream was just beinning as characters quickly filled up the fieldhouse with enthusiastic smiles and loads of spirit. Students competed against each other in various contests such bubble-gum blowing contest, the tiring tug of war, and the traditional yell contest in which the seniors achieved their goal. The senior class then presented an animated skit followed by the cheerleaders and pom pons presentation of the School Song to the devoted football players.

The Class of 1981 demonstrated the most school spirit in all of its adventures and therefore, was awarded the traditional spirit stick, however, the Underclassman did not let their spirit die here . . .

Drenched freshman yell their enthusiasm inspite of the ruined parade.

When you wish upon a star

makes no difference who you are

On October 3, 1980, the Warrior football team was all charged up to play their Homecoming game against Morton Senior High School. At half time the coronation ceremony had taken place. Tears of joy streamed down Jackie Klosak's face as she was announced the 1980 Homecoming Queen, and her court: Dina Comer, Karen Russell, Nelly Perez and CeCe Wallace were introduced. As they left the field with their escorts, the second half of the game began, and soon the Warriors triumphed over the Governors with a victorious score of 20-6.

On October 4, 1980, a victory dance was held. The cafeteria was transformed into a fantasy world, where dreams turned into a reality with shining stars and shimmering walls. The atmosphere had been created while the music was provided by "Stonewood Fox." While the queen and her court againt received recogniton, Pat Boyle was crowned Mr. Touchdown. With one of the largest turnouts ever, the dance was no doubt a success, and the dreams were no longer dreams—for they had been transformed into a reality.

Leadership and unity: the message for tomorrow.

About 2600 feet skip, slide, and shuffle to the fieldhouse. Is it a basketball game? A wrestling meet? No, 1300 People, strangers and friends gathered together to share and give praise!

The Bishop's Mass to open the 1980-81 school year brought the entire Noll community together to give thanks to our Creator and to focus on how we, as Christians are called to lead.

Captains, presidents, and other leaders of numerous school organizations gathered before their peers and promised to try to lead others in a fair way and prayed for insight and guidance to instruct their fellow students in the best way possible.

Every single one of us is a leader. We may not lead a group, but we do lead ourselves. We are the individuals that make up the group! We are the gears that make the wheels spin!

This offering of thanksgiving gave each individual an opportunity to praise and thank God. In the conclusion of the mass, the Concert Choir resounded with Handel's chorus entitled, "And The Glory" which revealed the excitement of praise by all.

Paying the price

What student could ask for more? The thoughtful administration set aside an hour for students to sit in a silent peaceful world, to examine their conscience and to express their creative writing abilities. Students have the luxury of choosing to attend this activity on either Tuesday or Thursday. If the peaceful world is not enough, there is the opportunity to enjoy the great outdoors, keeping the school clean and respectable. Although this seems rather enjoyable, the only possible way to take part in this newly formed activity is to get a detention. And the only way to get a detention is to break one of the BNI Guidelines. The detention system was designed to curb the discipline problem here at Noll. However, the penalty does not necessarily fit the offense. The same hour of silence is given to those who are out of uniform as well as those who use obscene language.

Above and left: Students are given the chance to clean up the school if their writing skills have already been perfected.

Jingle—Jingle—Jingle

The scene is set. Holly hangs from the corners. Mistletoe decorates the doorways. The cafeteria is transformed into Santa's Palace.

As the stereo blares disco, rock, and punk, a live disc jockey keeps everyone in beat while calling the tunes. All the red and green blurs away in a unified rhythm.

Secretly everyone anxiously waits for the arrival of Santa and his elves. The loud clatter is interrupted by the sound of sleigh bells. The party has started! Santa and his elves have arrived. Everyone eagerly jumped at the chance to his picture taken with Santa Claus.

The mood was festive and everyone had a great time trying out the new dance steps and reacting the old. Some were even attempted to do a "square-dance swim". Everyone shared in the Christmas spirit. The Sophomore class donated the proceeds to the Mission Club which in turn distributed it among the needy in the area.

WE'RE STILL THE ONE

The Student Council decided on it, the General Assembly voted on it, chairpersons, Julie Adamczyk and Karen Russell worked diligently on it—what was it?

The Winter Sports Spirit Days—a celebration in honor of our tremendous athletic teams. It all began when the swimmers splashed out their season with a record of 14-0 and the State Championship; contortionists wrestled their way to take the Regional Championship; the basketball team dribbled to a Conference Championship; and lastly, the hockey team skated to a 0-22 season—(Well, we are still proud of them).

The Student Council then took action. Being proud of their team, they wanted to honor "those well-deserved" athletes by holding Winter Sports Homecoming. Students were able to fantasize by pretending they were one of those stars in participating in any of the three dress-up days, which consisted of "comic book hero" day, "story book hero" day, and the traditional "blue and gold" day. A dance was also held in celebration of our athletes. Posters, streamers and flashing lights decorated the cafeteria. Music was provided by both a disc jockey and our own live band "Talon". As the music showed down and the lights dimmed low, Bishop Noll had created another memory.

N.I.S.B.O.V.A. — the test

Every year, in February, many of Noll's talented musicians participate in the locally held Northern Indiana Symphonic Band, Orchestra and Vocal Association competition.

Students start preparing for this contest as early as September of the previous year in order to achieve the perfection needed to achieve that first place gold medal.

Choral and band members work diligently to achieve the perfect musical tone, control and interpretation of the music.

Participants who received a first place in group one competition proceeded on to State Auditions at Butler University in Indianapolis. This competition gives musicians a sense of pride and accomplishment in their musical endeavors.

Noll musicians brought back many awards from both district and state. These gifted musicians brought honor to the school and to the music department.

Rendezvous in Paris

What better way to spend Valentine's day than strolling along the streets of the City of Love with your sweetheart? On Rue de Amour (Street of Love) one entered a quaint little outdoor cafe where refreshments were being served. The couples probably entered Pierre's Place many times in the course of the night because of all the dancing which was done to the music of "Together" in the Rendezvous ballroom. During the band's first break, the Turnabout court (Diane Duplaga, Cathy Hruskosky, Dawn Nowak and Portia Pittman) was announced and the new queen (Tami Huet) was crowned. These girls were members of the B.N.I. Service Club which, along with it's sponsor, Mrs. Lesniak, worked diligently for months in preparation for the annual dance. It all paid off in the end because the romantic atmosphere made it an enjoyable evening for one hundred and sixty couples. Vive la France!

Creating closeness

Students, freshmen through senior are offered a special spiritual opportunity during the school year in the form of retreats. Freshmen and sophomores leave the classroom for a more relaxed day in the basement of St. Margret Mary's Church. Juniors and seniors are invited to participate on an overnight retreat. All retreaters learn more about themselves, others and God. Student leaders and faculty members plan each moment carefully. Skits are rehearsed and activities developed to make the retreat experience special. Through the highly designed retreat program, a feeling which brings the BNI community closer together has a chance to endure.

The Little Foxes

Horace Giddens died of a heart attack on the night of March 5, 1981. And then again on the sixth, the seventh and the eighth; each night under the watchful eye of his loving wife, Regina. There was also a wife-beating, a theft, and a blackmailing. And what were the circumstances under which these events took place? Noll's presentation of Lillian Hellman's drama, "The Little Foxes."

It was the first time in over ten years that Noll presented a serious drama; but not without reservations. "I seriously thought that it would be a flop," said a member of the cast. But under the direction of Mr. Joseph Malczak and Fr. John Winterlin, the play was an unexpected success.

The plot revolves around a vicious family living in the South in the year 1900. The thrist for power and hunger for wealth by various characters results finally in the corruption of youth.

With a cast ot ten and a crew of three, each individual was an integral part of the production. Because of the small cast, attention could be focused on development of characters. The end result was an extremely strong portrayal of the Old South and an equally professional high school drama.

Mardi Gras revived

With the objective to raise money for the Mission Club, the determined Hi-Y and Y-Teens set out this year to revive Mardi-Gras: a fun-filled weekend carnival held in the school gym and cafeteria.

Under the direction of presidents Corinth Bishop and Teresa Jones the two organizations worked long hours to get everything ready for March 14 and 15. Prizes and booths had to be obtained, homerooms contacted, chaperones found and all in such a short time!

Booths this year ranged from the expected: such as the dunking booth and the pie throw, to the unexpected: three whacks at a junk car for a ticket. On the wrestling balcony a variety of bands played a choice selection of music, in the cafeteria a disco was held for those interested in dancing.

The Mardi-Gras was an ambitious attempt to bring back an event that has been absent from Noll for so long. Welcome back!

"Precious and Few" almost meaningless and none

Flowing gowns in an array of pastels and coordinating formal tuxedos were not worn on May eighth. Due to problems with the management of the Condesa Del Mar and the threat of having Prom '81 in the field house, the Junior-Senior Prom had to be moved. Although the new location was at the Admirals Convention Center (the location of last year's Prom) the date was moved up to May first. With one week less to prepare for the big night out, guys had to move fast to ask that special girl to the Prom, in order to have time to allow his date to get the gown she liked and get the tuxedo he wanted. Plus rushing to the flower shop to order that special floral arrangement and taking care of all the small but important last minute details.

As the clock slowly ticked to the time of the big moment, students were transformed into young ladies and gentlemen. It was no longer a day of confusion but a night of elegance, romance and excitement. In the midst of an evening of dining and dancing, the Prom Court of 1981 was announced. The Prom King and Queen were Brady Williams and April Calvert and their court consisted of Bill Slamkowski, John Davids, Karl Cid, Pat Boyle, Karen Russell, Kathy Quinn, Nelly Perez and Karen Schultz. When the hands of the clock passed the hour of one o'clock am, couples departed to continue their evening of "Precious & Few."

X-hibit of X-cellence

X-travaganza was x-actly what the title x-claimed. This festival of song and dance performed by talented Noll students was a pleasure to attend.

Melodies such as Summer Me, Winter Me, What I Did For Love, Ol' Man River and Tomorrow were performed with the grand finale being a medley of songs from the Broadway musical Evita. Teachers such as Mr. Mehok, Mr. Malczak and Fr. Winterlin expressed their personal sides and their special talents along with the students.

Long hours of preparation were put into X-travaganza. Dances were choreographed, songs were memorized and sets were constructed. Everything from a vocalists' expressions to a lighting change were rehearsed again and again until perfection was reached.

When the rousing applause were heard by the cast and crew on opening night, all the hard work and lengthy hours disappeared and nothing but pride and a feeling of accomplishment were left amidst all performers.

Detouring our way to school

Driving to school becomes routine after almost a school year has past. The stopping for lights and stop signs, turning on the turn signals and turning itself becomes automatic after awhile. One would think the car can get to school by itself. However, one morning the average Bishop Noll driving student encountered several "Road Closed" signs and just as many "Detour" signs. Students had to make adjustments in driving as well as timing.

At one point, only the entrance of Hoffman Avenue was open. Before and after school, cars were conjested in the parking lot for the longest time. White Oak was being torn up to make way for a new sewage system that carried waste from North Hammond to their control station, Robertsdale.

During the school day, cranes lifted and bulldozers moved. As time went on, soon the construction was completed and White Oak was soon accessible.

Four years of spiritual growth celebrated

Four years of a spiritual maturing came to an end on the rainy morning of May 29, 1981. A proper celebration was held for graduating seniors. A celebration that acknowledged the development of each individual's personal glory. As fanfares were trumpeted, seniors, faculty, parents, honored guests and Bishop Andrew Grutka entered Holy Angel's Cathedral to take part in the rejoicing of 277 spiritual structures that have taken shape in a four year period known as high school. During the Eucharist, students were informed of their duty in society and their duty to God. After the mass, guests, faculty and parents gathered outside the cathedral to congratulate those who have completed eight semesters of spiritual growth. Students always will be challenged about their faith, however, the strength of their faith stands impossible to knock down.

Four years end now life really begins

As the band echoed the sounds of Pomp & Circumstance, two hundred and seventy-seven students processed into the field house for their last time as students. Each student has completed the requirements of the state as well as the institution itself. Seniors were acknowledged for their academic accomplishments for their stay that took eight semesters to complete. Four years of attending high school classes and studying most every night have come to a close. An end that will act to produce something greater. Each individual headed in his own direction and climbing to their own personal goals. Congratulations were well in order after the commencement exercises, as students embraced each other, as well as their favorite teachers and most of all, their parents. And at the close of an evening full of joy all were wished the best of luck by their special and close friends and families.

As Prometheus brought fire to man

Unlike the other parts of high school life, our school work challenges us individually. All alone we begin to warm up by cramming for tomorrow's algebra test. While reading about the War of 1812, we examine the events that led up to the British burning down Washington, D.C. In World Literature, each of us discover for ourselves the meaning and symbolism in the Greek myth of Prometheus. In this tale, Prometheus stoled fire from the gods and gave it man. Working in the chemistry lab produces a rise in temperature that does not come from the bunsen burners, but our ability to formulate a conclusion from our own personal research and data. And in religion class, we realize how and why the Holy Spirit burns within us. Although most of the hard brain work is completed when we are by ourselves, most of the intensity is released when we combine each individual thought together to create original and accurate ideas. And as a result, the candle of knowledge burns hotter and brighter than ever. The equation for the most efficient way to HEAT is not $H=I^2xRxt$, but each of us sharing our minds to form ideas that will change the world of tomorrow.

Sentences diagrammed while you wait

From Alpha to Omega, Alpha to Tau, and from A to Z, the alphabet is the stepping stone of the creation of any language. The English Department headed by Mrs. LaMere, strives to teach their students all essentials of the English language.

Beginning everything, there must be a starting point. The letter A, articulation, emphasizes correct usage of the language spoken. C, coherence, a necessity for meaning to every sentence and paragraph. K, the knowledge to comprehend and understand the communications involved. R, reading, without this ability it is difficult to absorb any knowledge in practically every field of study. V, vocabulary, the painful study of millions of words. Good for impressing others and also understanding difficult texts of higher standards of learning. And finally, the letter Z, the zenith of the practice and understanding of the English language, most of all, to understand others as well as to be understood.

Math— the escalator to the future

In the beginning there were numbers. From there sprang forth equations and formulas. From 100 B.C. to 1981 A.D., numbers have remained in use. They still keep their same job as counters but now they can also be found in elaborate formulas like being accompanied by letters in algebraic equations.

The Math Department follows the tradition of creating future mathematicians. One year of a math course is required for graduation. The offered courses are varied. General Math presents a basic outline of usuable, everyday math. Advanced Algebra-Trig. offers students a chance to view the beauty of math through the study of trigonometric and algebraic functions. Geometry is founded upon the principle of proving a theory through careful analysis.

Mathematics is a valuable tool. It lets you know if you have a dozen eggs or how much money you have in the bank. It even helps launch balistic missiles and space shuttles. The BNI Math Department prepares its students to add and to multiply their contributions in the future.

The 5 minute rush

You are sitting in class looking out the window. You can hear the teacher's voice rambling on. Then there it is! That wailing tone that signals the end of class. All the students spring to life and race to their lockers. No easy task because the hallways are crowded with other desperate people running to their destinations. After a minute you reach your locker. Quickly, you spin the combination and your locker does not open. You try three more times and finally, your locker opens! You wipe the sweat from your face as your Math book slides from the top shelf and hits you in the face. You realize that three minutes have already passed. As you slam your locker shut, you pray that it does not jam and that you have all the books you need. You join the rest of the panic stricken students dashing to their next class. All of a sudden, the wail is heard throughout the building but you are not worried. You made it to class in four minutes and fifty-nine seconds. You settle down to await the next tone.

Above: Hey, you guys hurry or we'll be late!

The chemistry behind it all

A well equipped lab with fizzling formulas is the usual association made when thinking of science. The BNI Science Department encourages students to become mad scientists by offering a wide variety of science courses. To capable freshmen, a biology class is available. To the sullen sophomore, lies the responsibility to take biology. The junior is offered a course in chemistry. While seniors can further their chemistry knowledge or take a more physical science like physics.

The Science Department allows the student to think for himself and draw his own conclusions. The laboratory allows the student to make decisions for himself and to confirm his findings based on his data.

Spanning the globe

Who is Barry Goldwater and what is his formula for losing an election? What was the Peloponnesian War, who fought in it, and who won? What was the New Jersey Plan and how did it differ from the Virginia Plan? Who is Paul Volcker and is he involved in fiscal or monetary policy?

If you don't already know the answers to these questions, you should by the time you graduate from BNI thanks to the Social Science Department. World History, U.S. History, and Government are three of the Social Science courses which Bishop Noll Institute requires for graduation. Seniors are also required to take either Economics, Sociology, or Psychology in order to graduate.

The goal of studying the Social Sciences is to become an active citizen in our own government, become informed and aware of other forms of government. Another advantage of study in the Social Sciences is that it provides a strong background for deeper understanding in other areas of study. This is seen in the Junior year when you see the many relationships between United States History and American Literature. Hopefully, after your study of the Social Sciences at Noll, you will be prepared to accept your responsibilities in national and international societies.

The Shortest "Course" of the Day.

It was once said that man does not live by bread alone. Nevertheless, the school has set aside thirty minutes in every school day for this purpose, nourishment.

In wandering through the cafeteria, one is likely to observe several engrossed in various culinary indulgences. But eating is not all that goes on during any given lunch hour.

In addition to those who utilize the lunch hour for that which it was truly designed, there are several others who find these thirty minutes essential to fulfilling their academic obligations. At any given moment, during any given lunch hour, many people are striving to broaden their horizons (before their next class) in subjects ranging from French to German, from Biology to Physics, from Business Math to Calculus.

There are also those who find the lunch hour valuable for catching up on the latest "news", resting after a long morning of the three R's, and releasing their hostilities by projecting once tasty morsels through the air.

It seems that the quote, "Man does not live by bread alone," is incorrect. Judging by the activities occuring throughout the lunch period, the quote should be, "Man does not live by bread at all."

Preparing for the business world

Bishop Noll offers a great variety of business courses which prepare students for the many jobs available in today's society. The courses help students to develop skills and perfect them for further use. Whether one wants to go into a secretarial, accounting or teaching field, he or she must have an understanding of our economic society, therefore, our Business Department is a tremendous help.

This year Sister Rosita took the responsibility as head of BNI's Business Department. Sister has done a great job in keeping the department going smoothly.

Learning a new tongue

Habla usted una lengua extranjera? Es una buena idea porque varias universidades solamente aceptarán alumnos de escuela superior los cuales habían estudiado otra lengua por dos años. Una persona quien pueda hablar una lengua extranjera tiene una mejor oportunidad de obtener un puesto muy bueno.

In unserer Schüle, drei Sprachen werden gelernt: die Deutsch, das Französisch, und das Spanisch. Wenn Sie die Sprachen von anderen Ländern studieren gern, haben Sie die Gelegenheit für vier Jahre studieren.

En outre l'utilité en las affairs, la médecin, et le loi, la capacité parler une langue etrangère vous permettiez aprendre des gens, de coutoume et de culture des aurtes nations.

If you cannot read any of the information written on this page, enroll in a foreign language class and find out what is written on this page. In addition to discovering the characteristics and customs of other nations, you will acquire a useful skill as well.

Cooking up a storm and Stitching it all together

The Home Arts Department deals with two aspects of the future, home life and occupational life. The courses offered in cooking and sewing prepare students for life on their own life or even family life. They also prepare students for jobs in the home arts and home economics field.

Students taking foods learn about the preparation and the of nutritious and delicious meals. They also learn about economic buying and the use of kitchen equipment. Clothing I is a course designed as a basic study in clothing construction and textiles. Clothing II expands on this knowledge. Students have the opportunity to learn such aspects of sewing as knitting, needlepoint, quilting and crewel. Homemaking is an elective course for freshmen and sophomores which covers food preparation, budgeting and family relations.

Although these classes are not the typical math or science courses, students are offered the chance to experience future life in the home.

Developing creativity through the arts

The most creative and talented department at Noll is the Fine Arts Department. Fine Arts consists of art, music and theatrics.

The Art Department allows students to develop their artistic talents through work with water colors, oils, ceramics and numerous other medians.

The Music Department helps students develop the voice and the ability to play an instrument. Choral and band are not just classes, they continue into the student's own time. One must be extremely dedicated to become involved in either organization.

The Theater Arts Department produces the wonderful musicals, comedy-dramas and musical reviews held here. This group designs and constructs sets, arranges light and sound systems and many other technical aspects of the shows.

While bringing a touch of class and elegance to the common curriculum, the Fine Arts Department helps the students involved find and improve their true talents.

Building a stronger faith

The foundation of the everyday life in school is determined by a common Christian faith. Every activity and every part of the curriculum links with the idea of Christianity. Although the Christian faith is quite complex, it is made easier to understand through a well-developed and highly organized system known as the Religion Department. Headed by Fr. E. Moszur, this department helps students understand how their faith came as such by teaching the history of Christians and the Catholic Church, discover what Jesus is like by teaching the life of Christ and develop a Christian idea of marriage by discussion and reading of several different materials on the topic.

Religion classes, in general, put to use the text book, class discussions and individual projects to show the student exactly what is happening in their lives. The student becomes aware of the society in which they live and the Religion Department illustrates how Christianity can help curb social injustice.

This department sets BNI apart from any other high school in the area. Unlike other schools, Bishop Noll helps guide students to live a Christian life and to understand more about a special part of himself—his spirituality.

The most efficient way to HEAT

Inflamed with being the best in town

There is probably no other place in the solar system where 1400 people can interact with each other in the way we do at 1519 Hoffman Avenue. Five days a week we gather together to burn a path that lets everyone know who we are and what we have done.

Within a course of a day we strive for that certain something we all want out of life. Whether working on a Religion project with another classmate, planning Mardi Gras with another Y-teen member, practicing with another teammate for the big soccer match or even constructing a homecoming float with a friend, we are inflamed with the excitement of being the best.

We have always been number one because we work so hard together. We are known for our intense heat that always escapes when we cooperate with each other. No matter where any of us comes from, the most efficient way to HEAT is each and every Noll person.

The two sides of the administration

Fun-loving and hard-working

The Administration at Noll is comprised of friendly people who determine and define school policies. They are responsible for deciding what the new dress codes will be as well as what are the grounds for the suspension or expulsion of a student. Although considered the Establishment, their decisions are based on careful examination for special situations. They try their hardest to do what is best for the BNI community as a whole. Over the years they have managed to maintain the high standing of the school in the public's opinion. They are what it takes to make a community successful.

Faculty

Before a campfire is born there is only wood and matches. Before a person becomes a student there is only a body and a teacher. The match causes a spark and the spark ignites the wood. The teacher ignites a person's interest to become a student. The teachers here at Noll get involved. They create sparks; whether they are coaching a team, sponsoring a club or staying long after the school building has closed to help a student. They are willing to open themselves at retreats or in the classroom to help the students understand themselves as well as the teacher. The BNI faculty is of the highest quality. They are interested in the betterment of their students and work hard to instill the premise of fine Christian adulthood in their students.

A campfire aflame creates light and warmth. The BNI faculty creates a bond of warm fellowship and friendship with the student body.

The Services in "A" Building

The counselors and staff members of Student Services are always available before, during and after school ready to lend a helping hand and a willing ear to any student seeking assistance with their present or future classes, future plans, stresses of the present day or any other situation where guidance is needed. The people who work in Student Services will always aid a student in any way possible. Students may make an appointment to see their counselors through Mrs. Geary.

College plans are formulated in this office. Information on college placement testing, college applications and college representatives are found here along with college catalogs and brochures which may be used by all students.

There is one office in this school that is always busy and that is health services. Whether it is applying bandages, taking temperatures, administering ice packs or just offering a little sympathy for a headache, Mrs. Verbish and her staff help students prevent illness by screening them for visual problems and hearing defects.

Without these two groups of dedicated workers, the Noll community wouldn't be steady on its feet.

The Heart and Brain

of Bishop Noll

When one walks into Bishop Noll, the first thing which comes into view is the main office, the heart of Noll. This cell of life contains many dedicated secretaries. These secretaries are extremely important in order to achieve a smooth-running school environment. These ladies keep student records, collect tuition and registration fees, take student illness calls, are secretaries for the administrators and are willing to lend a helping hand to any student or parent who needs assistance. Students think school hours are long, the main office secretaries arrive before and leave after we do!

Proceeding upward from the heart, one will find the brain cell of Noll, the library. The librarians aid students in research work by instructing them on the proper use of the library and how to find sources. Books, magazines, films and records are available for student use. The media center is also part of the library. Audio-visual machines kept here aid in the presentation of educational material.

Not well-known but necessary

Feeling down? Just can't make it to school today? Make sure you notify the school. The attendance office is very strict about calling off from school. Though practically unknown, they have the important job of keeping track of all the absentees. They also have a record of all those tardy and even those serving detentions. The attendance office is also a haven for "lost and found" goods, from gloves to World History books.

Another rarely acknowledged group is the study hall or classroom supervisors also known as Para-Professionals. Everyday they come, unarmed, to their posts in the classrooms. They are responsible for keeping the students in line as well as keeping them in the classroom.

These two dedicated groups of people are hardly ever recognized yet play an important part in the Noll community.

It tastes better, it looks better

While passing Bishop Noll at night, one often sees lights shining through the classroom windows. Do students have a detention that keeps them so long after school? No! Those lights indicate that our maintenance staff is hard at work cleaning chalkboards, floors and desks. Maintenance men are here early in the morning clearing the walks and the parking lots from snow. Cutting grass, washing windows and fixing leaking pipes are just a few of the many jobs the maintenance staff does during the course of the day.

For a change of pace from the traditional brown bag lunch, try the delicious and nutritious meals served by the BNI kitchen staff. These ladies work hard to create savory dishes that will make the lunch period enjoyable.

Both the maintenance staff and the kitchen staff are rarely acknowledged. Without them, the Noll community would have a difficult time functioning.

Below: The cleaning lady heads toward B wing to begin the afternoon's job.

Small but mighty

we've come a long way

Four years ago, who would ever think of being a member of the senior class of '81. It has been a long time, a lot of changes have taken place. Regardless, this year we are number one. After three years of being the underdog, it seems strange voting for homecoming queen, cheering our fellow classmates leading the Warriors to victory, ordering name cards and announcements, going to our senior prom, practicing for graduation night and even trying on caps and gowns. Although applying for college and making grades that would be impressive are very important, the fun we have is just as important, if not more. Working on homecoming, going to dances, or appearing on the stage takes a lot of time out of the heavy study schedules.

We are one of the smallest classes that ever existed at Noll. However, being small did not stop us from being strong, mighty, and powerful. The spirit of '81 is impossible to measure. We let everyone know who was the best during the assembly for the elections of senior class officers. For being a small class, we proved size is not important by capturing the homecoming spirit contest and winning the yell contest.

Graduation always felt like it was never going to come, however, the night of graduation made the four years go by like four days. Each of us marched across the stage to receive that well-deserved diploma. Throwing our caps in the air as Fr. Moszur announced us as the graduated class of 1981 marked our last appearance at BNI as a student. Now, we head in different directions—thinking of Bishop Noll only as a memory.

More spirit than needed!

Spirit days are only a small part of how Seniors excell in their spirit. This year Seniors dressed uniquely according to each spirit day.

Working our way to the top

The junior class is now on the third step of the ladder of education. During the past two years, the class has grown and matured together.

Junior year brings about many challenges such as exciting experiences in the chemistry lab, being called to the board to work an algebra equation, mastering the typewriter keyboard or cramming for those awful U.S. History tests.

Don't be fooled! Being a junior isn't all work and no play. Many juniors participate in student council, sports, musical organizations, theatrics, publications and clubs. Junior year brings about the fantastic experience of going on an over night retreat. Experiences and problems are shared and as a result, the members of the junior class are brought closer together.

As the class of '82 rapidly approaches the fourth and final step in the high school education ladder, the spirited juniors will meet and conquer a whole new collection of experiences and challenges.

Not lost, but found

No longer a lost Freshman, Sophomore year becomes a time to explore new frontiers. No more Physical Education, no more jeers from Seniors, but most of all no more indigestion caused from ten o'clock lunch!

Although being the middle class of the Bishop Noll family, the Sophomore class is surely not treated as black sheep. This is because the Sophomores take part in all kind of activities ranging from athletics to a variety of clubs. Some of the most noted activities performed this year was the Christmas dance. With music provided by a disc-jockey, lights dimmed low, the mood was set to dance the night away. As a special attraction, a famous celebrity joined the gala. The man of fame was jolly ole Santa Claus. The proceeds from the dance were donated to the Mission Club who forwarded the money to the needy.

For many years, it has been a tradition to place the wise, witted, and wonderful into an organization of their own. The Sophomore Math Club sponsored by Mr. Queyquep, are the Einsteins of the future. The club sponsors a tournament for the eighth-graders of the Gary Diocease. Several mathematical questions are submitted in test form to teams that are set up by the club. The grades are then tested and the teams with the highest scores are awarded.

Biology involves all of the Sophomores. From research to disection there is always a grasshopper to be had or if one prefers Arthropoda. Exploration journeys outside of the body and into the anatomy of the human body, the Sophomore class experiences the one semester course of Health and Safety. Techniques of Cardio-Pulmonary Resuscitation are shown along with the effects of certain stresses and dangers of the human body. A Liberal Art is also mentionable among the Sophomore class. The one semester course of Speech, speaks for itself for it is self-explanatory. From the shyest to the boldest, a good time is had by all. In conclusion, Sophomore year is a time to open up and share with others. As a result, the relationships built today are those to dwell on tomorrow.

Sopho-more craze

Sophomores enthusiastically relate to the basketball game.

More with '84

The first thing everyone probably noticed about this year's freshmen class was its size-even larger than last year's. What they didn't know was that this class had more . . . not just more students, but more.

Coming to Bishop Noll this year was a whole new experience for every freshman. Like any normal freshman, the first thing that crosses a freshman mind on the first day of high school is the ol' business of getting lost, being nervous, or not knowing anyone in my classes. However, in no time, the freshmen are welcomed as being part of the Bishop Noll community. The various activities which go on during the year play an important role in becoming accustomed to the new school and new faces. Activities such as Homecoming events, sports, band, plays, retreats, and various clubs are just a few of the activities that Bishop Noll offers.

Through these activities, the freshmen are able to reveal themselves. Activities help to reveal the talents which every individual holds within. Even though this is a whole new beginning for every freshmen, it will be one to cherish. The class of '84 will be one that shows MORE through their talents and spirit!

Fusing our interests together

Practically no one goes to school just to sit in a classroom for six hours of the day. That is why we have special clubs designed to inflame the interests of each student. Over twenty-five extra-curricular activities are offered to students who want to become involved. Whether it be planning Mardi Gras, painting the wall murals for the homecoming dance or serving dinner at the Senior Banquet, we work together to kindle something that is common to all. The organizations give every student the chance to make new friends and simply have a lot of fun. The most efficient way to HEAT is the warmth of having a steaming good time.

Law and order and a lot of fun

The "official representatives of the student body," the forum for student expression or just, "that group that runs Homecoming." All this and more go into the making of Bishop Noll's Student Council.

This year's Student Council consisted of thirty-one homeroom representatives, twelve class officers, and four cabinet members; all of whom are under the guidance of Faculty Sponsor Father Moszur. Father Moszur and President Mark Skertic helped to steer the Student Council through familiar territory: The Red Cross Blood Drive, The American Cancer Society's Daffodil Days, and, of course, Homecoming. New projects were also tackled by this year's Student Council: Gaining membership in the Midwestern Student Councils, Inc., and Winter Sports Spirit Days.

The members of this year's Student Council were kept busy working on the above mentioned activities, as well as sponsoring dress up days, selling theater tickets at a reduced rate, or just passing out the minutes from a General Assembly to the homerooms.

The Student Council is like no other extra-curricular activity at Noll. The individuals involved have to demand the most from themselves and give it to the Student Body.

Read all about it

The Journoll, as source for information, has the head-line. It keeps the Noll community up to date on school happenings. It conducts movie reviews and student opinion polls. As well as its serious side, which is reporting the Noll news, the Journoll gives potential writers a chance to express themselves through creative writing both in fiction and non-fiction articles.

The Journoll accomplishes exactly what it is set out to do—report the Noll news. Co-editors Karen Kolodziej and Barb Ceiga hold the staff together by making sure all the articles meet deadlines by using modern design elements to create an outstanding piece of information.

The whole Journoll staff participated in the final steps of arranging the stories into a presentable form for the newspaper. After the papers were printed and delivered to the school, the students also had the tedious task of delivering the papers to each classroom. Even then the job wasn't done—there is always next month's paper that must be worked on.

Not just making memories

but capturing one year forever

Who is responsible for the words in this book? No one else but the dedicated staff of the '81 MARQUETTE. Spending most of the day after school writing copy, selecting pictures and designing layouts; these journalists make A-115 their natural habitat properly named the MARQUETTE office. The task of producing a great yearbook is not an easy one. With the imagination, the creativity and the formation needed to print 256 pages comes the enormous pressures of meeting deadlines. Some of the deadlines give the staff fourteen days to complete eighty-eight pages. In order to meet this deadline, the staff spends even more time together and not just after school but on weekends as well as vacations.

The purpose of this staff is to record one year of history of the Noll community as accurately as possible. By capturing as many moments as available, the staff aims to rekindle those special times with friends whenever this front cover is lifted open.

Stepping Up and Out

This year the Bishop Noll Band continued its progress towards a new look. A new innovation is that there are two drum majors instead of one. Junior Cathy Mucharski and Sophomore Greg Mahoney share the drum major duties.

In addition to participating in NISBOVA marching competition, the Band travelled to Soldiers Field. The competition was for a berth in the Orange Bowl. The Band placed second in the competition.

The Bandroom also received the finishing touches of its new look. The Bandroom was carpeted and received a new coat of paint. The constant innovations of director Mr. Richard Lesniak promises to make the BNI Band even better in the future.

Adding flair

and glamour

Smiling and dancing is not the only thing the BNI colorguard does. The colorguard must have a good sense of timing as well as precision, balance and a keen eyesight. While attending two camps over the summer, flag and rifle techniques are learned and perfected. The squad develops a routine and then combines it with the band to produce a brilliant show. The flag and rifles add color, flair, motion and excitement to the band's dazzling music.

Not only does the colorguard squad perform during football half-time shows and parades, but they also perform for basketball half-time shows. The colorguard sheds the flags and rifles and gains pom pons. Now the poms dance to the beat of contemporary music using modern footsteps.

The Flags and Rifles and Pom Pons are an essential part of the dazzle and glamour that flares up the spirits of every individual.

They've got rhythm

From Crucifixus to Auction Cries to the Halleluah Chorus—it is obvious that the Concert Choir has a great deal more than just rhythm. They represent an organization of talented, dedicated and hard working young adults who use their music to express an idea.

Under the brilliant direction of Rev. John Winterlin, the Concert Choir performs throughout the year providing audiences with selections varying from musical show tunes to gospel hymns.

Concert Choir does not only involve sixth period class everybody, but also long hours of extra rehearsal in preparation for upcoming concerts.

The members of the Concert Choir held this union in high regard. One member expressed the basic theme which inspires all, "Concert Choir is not simply a group of performers but a community which attempts to relate their ideas and emotions through the use of one of God's greatest gifts."

Swingin' a happy tune and all that jazz

The Bishop Noll Music Department is truly a department with variety. Two examples of this are the thriving jazz band and the swing choir. Both groups offer students the opportunity to learn and work with music that is not studied in the regular classroom.

The jazz band offers students the opportunity to explore the "big band" sound. Students are exposed to improvised solos, jazz articulations and the unique jazz sound. The group is composed primarily of band members who are interested in broadening their education in music. The jazz band is both a challenging and exciting component of the ever-changing, ever-striving music department.

The swing choir is also a lively and refreshing group. It allows choral students to experiment with popular music and music not ordinarily studied in the classroom. The group sings at a number of social events throughout the year and is representative of the positive attitudes throughout the music department. The swing choir is open only to choral members who are willing to give the hard work and preseverance needed to make an outstanding group. The swing choir adds personality and vitality to the entire music department.

The jazz band and swing choir are beautiful examples of how hard work, cooperation, and dedication can come together to form something that benefits the entire school.

The ones who really care

No one can support students more than their parents. This is especially demonstrated through the parent organizations at Noll.

Mothers and fathers who join the Parents Club work together to raise money in order to keep the school operating up to its full potential. The Men's Club holds an annual smoker. This year's guest speaker was Richard "Digger" Phelps, head coach of the Notre Dame basketball team. The Women's Club puts on the Christmas Bazaar and fashion show. The Music Parents Club holds annual turkey and ham bingos, sells Christmas wreaths and holds a spring raffle. This keeps the band, choral and color guard financially sufficient.

The parents are helping the students and themselves by helping to provide a unique Catholic education and by helping to keep tuition costs down.

Exciting fun

A fun and easy game is a new club at ANoll. The Ping-pong Club, sponsored by Fr. Tokarz, is open to any student who likes fun. The expertise of the members varies from the beginner to the master. Several tournaments were held including a championship. Interested students challenged each other to improve their talent and develop their skill. The chance to play ping-pong after school gave students something to do that was fun, exciting and full of thrills. The fast paced duels were held in the basement of St. Margret Mary's church.

Serving more than just food

There is a special group of Junior and Senior girls in the Noll community, who form the BNI Service Club. They are special since each selected member is a responsible, active person who knows how to devote herself to one activity.

The Service Club and sponsor, Mrs. Elaine Lesniak, are well-known for the outstanding job they do for the annual February dance, Turnabout. Members begin to work on the dance in November, and continue to labor right up to the last minute before the dance. The dance is always well-organized since each member takes on her own responsibility. For every aspect of the dance there is a Senior chairperson and a Junior co-chairperson.

The club is also known for their services, such as serving food at the Women's Club Christmas Luncheon and Style Show, as well as the Senior Banquet and even sports award banquet. Members this year also served as guides for the freshmen open house and ushers for the fall musical.

They're doing more than clowning around

"Where are the clowns? . . . Send in the clowns." Have you heard the news? The BNI clowns have arrived! They are all polished up now and shine right to the tips of their red noses.

The BNI clown ministry is a community effort, each clown doing his own part to make their shows a success. The group consists of fifteen clowns. Three are faculty members and the rest are students and Noll alumni.

During their weekly meetings, the clowns learn how to use various clown makeup and how to work with effects ranging from a squirting flower to invisible dogs. These clowns follow the same format as the clowns that made us laugh at the circus.

Do you have what it takes to be a clown? This course in "clowning around" lasts from eight to twelve weeks but the clowns band together all year. They perform at nursing homes, hospitals, orphanages, and parades. They also make special appearances at parties and are especially busy around Halloween and Christmas. Their ministry is to make people laugh, to forget their troubles and to just let loose.

Giving of ourselves

This week's Mission Club winners are . . . Every week some lucky student wins the Mission Club weekly raffle . . . but a Quarter had to have been donated early in the week when your Mission Club homeroom representative passed the envelope or you could not collect the monetary prize. Mission Club members, with the help of generous students, collect food and other items for Thanksgiving baskets which are given to needy families in the area. Mission Club also holds an annual Easter raffle where baskets and bunny rabbits may be won. Members also help bring Christmas cheer to Noll by decorating an evergreen tree in the courtyard.

Giving of ourselves is just part of what being a Christian is all about and Noll students are great examples of this statement.

Big N's lend a hand

Have you ever taken a look outside your classroom window and onto the front parking lot between 1:40 and 2:00 and saw people out there who were wearing bright orange vests? Most likely these people are members of Noll's Varsity Club. To be eligible for the club one must have earned a Varsity letter. Parking lot patrol is not the only thing the Varsity Club does, they offer service to the school by helping with open houses, assisting at sporting events, or visiting Maple Manor. If a Varsity Club member has shown up for all of his parking lot assignments and has 10 hours of service, then the member receives a patch for his efforts. Hopefully the Varsity Club will be back next year to offer these services again.

Keeping Up Our Spirits

By encouraging the screams, the yells and the cheers, the BNI cheerleaders generate school spirit, excite the fans and support the athletes. They set off a type of electricity that sparks everyone who is exposed to the sound of enthusiasm.

Decorating the players lockers', baking cookies, candy, selling buttons, painting gigantic posters, and practicing for hours during the week on mounts that will appeal to the crowd is all part of being a cheerleader. Last but not least, trying to maintain a smile and keep the crowd yelling when the team is losing. The job is an enjoyable one but not an easy one.

Battle of wits

They fight a real battle—a battle of wits. While the queen holds most of the power her partner, the king, has the authority to move at free will. Usually the pawns are sent first to battle the opponent, though their journey takes time. The bishop and rooks soon rush into enemy territory. Once a battle has begun, there is no end until the king and his kingdom have been captured.

The saga is reenacted over and over again. Is it a terrible curse that binds these mortals to battle? No, it is the chess and backgammon club. Where a chess player is given the opportunity to battle their wits with other class enthusiasts and others enjoy a round of backgammon. This is a club that offers an escape from the "hum-drum" of the usual Monopoly of games.

Multiplication gets you there faster than addition

Of course multiplication will get you there faster than addition, but you must start somewhere. This somewhere is the Freshman Math Club, the first of the three math clubs here at Noll.

Mrs. Poracky, sponsor of the freshmen, takes on the responsibility of preparing them for various math and calculator competitions held throughout the year at various high schools in the area.

The Sophomore Math Club is much bigger and more involved; not only does the size increase, but the activities are multiplied. Besides attending competitions elsewhere, the Sophomore Math Club hosts its own Annual Mathematics Tournament. Eighth graders from all over the area are invited to take part. Many come from as far away as Joliet and Michigan City, to combine their mathematical knowledge and compete as teams among themselves. Another less popular but equally important event for the sophomores is the Annual Symposium. A symposium is an exchange of ideas. It consists of a guest speaker followed by a question and answer session. Refreshments are served and certificates of membership are awarded by Mrs. Primozic, head of the Math Department. Mr. Quepquep is the advisor of the club and has been for many years. He has selflessly devoted his time and energy to the success of the club.

The third Math Club is the Junior-Senior Math Club which is sponsored by Mr. Mitchell. It mainly involves attending many of the same competitions as the underclassmen but they also assist the Sophomores by grading the Eighth Grade Math Tournament papers.

The Math Clubs are extra-curricular activities which add to the curriculum of math by multiplying one's knowledge and skills in the field of Mathematics.

Becoming fine young women

Y-teens is an organization for young ladies only. They represent togetherness and encourage all young ladies who enjoy meeting people and being involved to join them.

Along with various activities and entertainment, Y-teens' motto is one of unity and togetherness for all races, creeds and colors. They believe in helping those less fortunate than themselves and raise money for others through dances and other fund raisers.

This year, in conjunction with the Hi-Y Club, the Y-teens co-sponsored the return of the Mardi Gras celebration. A lot of work helped make the event a success. The organization is co-sponsored by Mrs. Bulanda and Miss Spence.

Maturing Men

Developing a student into a fine young man is Hi-Y's goal. It serves as an outlet to these young men to discuss world events and current issues, as well as any topic which might benefit the group.

Hi-Y also has its fun side too! There is the sharing of new ideas and experiences and the meeting of new friends. In addition to this Hi-Y was the new sponsor of Mardi Gras. They made a most successful attempt at reviving Mardi Gras which we haven't had at Noll for several years. The group also sponsors an annual disco dance.

Funds inhibit team but quality uplifts team

What is Speech and Debate? It is increasing your speaking abilities and stimulating your mind. It is learning and competing.

The team has increased from five people four years ago and now numbers over forty strong. Miss Proll, 4 year sponsor, is delighted with the flowering of her teams. But the sudden growth has caused some problems, namely of the monetary kind. Lack of funds inhibits teams but quality still strengthens the team's will.

The team is open to all students. There are fourteen different events from which to choose. They run the gamut from Original Oratory, the entrant writes, edits and presents the speech to radio where the entrant never sees the judge but gives a radio broadcast to which the judge listens.

This year junior Kim White became the State Champion in poetry. She is the first champ in Noll's Speech and Debate history. She is also the first member of a Catholic High School team to win a State Championship. Senior Mike Ziolkowski achieved a rarity. He received the Double Ruby. It is the highest honor that can be awarded by the National Forensic League.

As the team grows, so does the quality strengthen. Bishop Noll's Speech and Debate is emerging as a powerhouse in N. Indiana, soon to be a state giant.

Behind the scenes

Rarely ever seen, these dedicated members work hard backstage to make theatrical productions possible. Designing sets and then the difficult task of building them is only part of their job. This club is also responsible for controlling the lights, sound and curtains during performances.

This year the Theatre Arts Club constructed elaborate sets for Guys & Dolls and The Little Foxes as well as X-travaganza. These students were also responsible for the special effects during the band and choral concerts as well as National Honor Society Induction Ceremony.

Even though this group of students are not exposed to the public and get very little recognition, they work hard because of their love for the theatre.

NHS makes the distinction

NHS is emblazoned on the pin worn so proudly by its members. Qualifications for membership to be able to wear the exclusive pin are scholarship, service, leadership and character. Members are selected from the students who rank in the upper one-third of their class scholastically. Yet, even further, students are reviewed for their great unusual interest and enthusiasm for all school activities. The society is under the direction of Mrs. Betty Langedyk. Mrs. Langedyk helps the members hold the ever popular "Locker Clean-Up" and a dance with a live D.J. Students involved in the National Honor Society also get the chance to be the student receptionist for a day.

The things one can collect in a locker

An innocent, unsuspecting student dials his locker combination and opens the door. All of a sudden books, papers, a Religion research project and some old, uneaten lunches from three months ago tumble out, flooding the halls and engulfing the student. The Guardian Angels of clean lockers, the National Honor Society, come to the rescue by initiating a school-wide locker clean-up. Students are given the opportunity to toss out old Algebra quizzes, pencil stubs (number 2, of course), and moldy popcorn. NHS members are on the prowl, collecting misplaced library books and discarded English Department paperbacks which were excavated from a forgetful student's locker. Thanks to NHS, students can once again see the bottoms of their lockers, but not for long!

Outstanding achievers

in journalism and business

The purpose of the National Business Honor Society is to promote an interest in business. In order to attain membership in this organization, an upperclassman must maintain a B average and have taken at least 3 business courses.

Outstanding achievement in journalism entitles a student to membership in the honorary organization of Quill and Scroll. To qualify, a student must show outstanding achievements on either of the two Bishop Noll publications and be in the top third of his or her class.

The most efficient way to HEAT

A year ignited with champs

It is not the heat of the heavy perspiration during a big workout nor the pressures of competition that makes each athlete burn with excellence, but the pride, determination and obedience of each athlete possesses to bring honor and glory to himself and to his school. Each athlete takes it upon himself to develop and train his mind and body to be in peak condition. It is this attitude of championship that makes Bishop Noll known throughout the region. Titles of championship and achievement were captured by the widest variety of teams ever. The girls' cross-country team ran away with the 1st place title in regionals and the 4th place title in the state invitational meet. The girls' swimming team nabbed 5th place in sectionals. The boys' tennis team obtained BNI's first tennis sectional title. As the frosh. and J-V wrestling teams both captured their respective LSC championship title, the varsity wrestling team also won their LSC championship plus 1st place titles in the sectional tourney and regional tourney. The frosh basketball team snatched the ILSC title and the varsity basketball team finished their season with only one loss out of twenty games. The climax of athletic achievement took place when the splashin' Warriors returned from Indianapolis on a fire engine with the state championship title. No matter where the game is at, the athletes as well as the fans are set afire with spirit and devotion. The most efficient way to HEAT is our inflamed spirit that lets everyone know that we are the Winnin' Warriors.

Having the power to endure

Cross Country is a sport of determination and painful preparation. To excell at cross country one must be at school at six in the morning to run a four to six mile warm-up, followed by an evening run of eight to ten miles.

The lettermen of the 1980 squad were junior John Companik, sophomores Jim Massoels, Steve Hruskocy and freshmen Dave Smolen, Pat Norris and Mike Boyda.

Season highlights include the varsity's fifth place conference finish and the freshmen team's third place finish.

Individually, John Companik finished undefeated in Conference. He won the Sectional meet and placed fourth and tenth in Regionals and Semi-State respectively. Representing Bishop Noll for the first time in six years at the State meet, he broke the school five kilometers record and had the school's first individual placing.

Although only a first year coach, Jim Tarka brings a wealth of running knowledge. Coach Tarka predicts a bright future for the Noll cross country team.

Returns another LSC Championship

Game! Set! Match! The Noll tennis team won their first sectional title defeating rival Munster High, 3-2. They also captured the 1980 Lake Shore Conference title with a perfect record of 8-0.

After practicing for two and a half months it paid off. The team was solid all the way. Everyone proved their capability and achieved an outstanding record of 16-3. Three team members became conference title winners, Bob Buchanan at number one singles and the number two doubles team of Todd Mitchell and Dean Salczynski.

Coach Fr. Srode believed this to be one of the best and toughest teams in the region. Their enthusiasm and determination led them to a winning season.

Too many close calls

The 1980-81 football season ended with another successful season for Coach Vlasic and Coach Sivulich. The Fighting Warriors could have easily turned a 7-3 season into 10-0. The main drawback was inconsistency in both the offense and defense departments. As shwon in the Roosevelt game, when you're hot you're hot! The thirty points were all scored in the second half. The season opened with a loss to Elwood which was due to the team not being seasoned enough yet. Another drawback came in a last minute miracle fumble recovery and a last second "bomb." The last defeat came in a nitty-gritty game with a "never say die" battle to the finish against Hammond High. The season was ended with a dramatic last minute finale capping the victory over Clark and resting in second place in the Lake Shore Conference.

Athlete's feet?

Whether blocking a receiver on a football field, shooting a jump shot on the basketball court, holding a dead lock on the wrestling mat, driving on the golf course, or running the ¼ mile on the track, one rarely considers the footwear one is equipped with. Each sport requires an athlete to wear shoes that would most benefit the athletes' performance in that sport. Being as though each sport is played on a different surface, the sport shoes must be compatible with the sport as well as the playing field. In addition, depending on the type of shoe and quality of the shoes make athletics very expensive to play. A football player must wear spiked shoes. The spike shoe allows the football player to acquire better traction on the grass field and to assist in better take offs from a still position. A basketball player also wears shoes for traction, however theirs are rubber soles to aide the athlete in running, jumping and that sudden stopping that fakes the opponent. A wrestler wears a special high-top light weight shoe. This type of shoe allows the athlete to make the best of his moves on the mat while protecting the opponent from being injured when hit with a foot. Anyone who runs track also wears a special type of shoe. The shoe is basically very light weight with a thick rubber sole and heavy treds on the bottom. These shoes allow the runner to move more quickly with better traction, a little more bounce and little weight binding the feet down. A golfer wears the traditional golfing shoe to give him better footage on the golf course. A baseball player must also invest in spikes whether rubber or steel. The spiked shoes allow the baseball player to run, stop and manuever on the field easier. Finally a swimmer must invest in a shoe that allows him to move quicker in the water. But since shoes like that are not in existence, swimmers wear their barefeet during meets and practices.

Being as though each Warrior wants to do his best in what he does, he must get the proper equipment. Consequently his shoes are just as important as the rest of the uniform.

The best in five long years

One day in August some seventy-five girls tried out for the 1980 volleyball team. They practiced everyday showing skills in bumping, serving, setting and spiking. After one week, 24 girls were chosen. Coach Norton resumed practice everyday for three and a half hours. The girls perfected their skills in order to have a winning season. Well, it paid off! the varsity team compiled the best record in the five years of volleyball history at Noll. Their record was 16-9, in which they had seven wins and one loss in conference. They came close to beating conference rival Morton in the finals at sectionals. The biggest win for the team was taking the Lowell tournament beating Lowell in the finals in only two games.

Under the watchful eye of Coach Smith, the junior varsity team impressed their fans as well as their opponents. They defeated their conference rivals to take the junior varsity tournament. They brought great pride to the volleyball team.

Too much chlorine clouds season but clear waters ahead

Off to its sixth season, the girls swim team has come a long way since it was formed in 1975. This year replacing Coach Tonkovich as head of the girls' swim team is Ms. Sue Hayes. The season got off to a slow start. This was Miss Hayes' first attempt at coaching a swim team and also her first year here at Noll. She did a super job holding the team together, even when the tide was low.

Practices were held in the swimming pool every day after school from 2:10 to 4:30. On Tuesdays and Thursdays, the workload was doubled with morning and after-school practices. On Wednesdays, there were workouts with the weights.

Through all the turbulent waves, the girls' spirit never died. Their beacon of hope was their motto "Go for it!" How could they give up? They were a team. Their coach was strict with them. She was expecting a lot from them, yet she was very understanding.

In her words, "The girls got off to a slow start because they were used to someone else (Tonkovich). They were a little skeptical of the season and unsure of the coach . . . We're getting some new recruits so next year the team should be stronger, especially if the girls gain confidence in themselves."

Splashin' Warriors STATE Champs

For only the second time in Nolly history, the Warriors captured a State title of Indiana. All the countless, hard work and driving effort paid off and was finally recognized.

After defeating a victory over Munster for the first in twelve years, the BNI swimmers finished the 1980-81 season with a tremendous record of 14-0, the best in the history of swimming. They also placed first in the Merrillville Swim Fest and Kankakee East Invite, second in the Munster Relays and first in the Lake Shore Conference.

"This group of young men gave up much this year for the success of the season. They spent many hours in the pool and weightrooms doing what needed to be done to win. It was a privilege to work with them and watch them develop and reach for and attain a State Title" replied devoted Coach Tonkovich.

Although the swimmers were only third in Sectionals, the climax of the season came when the swim team achieved their primary goal of the season. A State Championship. It was the first State Championship achieved ever by the swimmers and only the second in any other sport in the history of Noll. This success was done primarily by Chris Lovin and Pete Rodenburg who were both individual state champs; Bill Slamkowski finished fifth place as Terry Smith achieved a nineteenth place, Scott Dickinson finished third and fifth, and John Gargula finished sixth and seventh.

Even in times of despair, cries of hope resound through the atmosphere. Nothing stops the people who care about their athletic representatives—not cold, not rain, not even long distances of travel. The love and pride for what these fans can call their own drives them everywhere. The confetti, the yells, the cheers are just samples of what it takes to be true Warriors.

Once is never enough

The Skatin' Warriors made their appearance on the ice once again this hockey season. These men worked harder than ever for this season, but being a young, inexperienced team held them back. It seemed the ice never gave the team the chance to warm up enough to win. The hockey team only won one game. But it was this game that lifted the team's spirits higher than any other team has ever been. After losing game after game, labeled as losers, their victory proved they can do it. With more ice time and the return of most of the team, the Skatin' Warriors should have enough experience, technique, and style to out skate their opponents.

Five seconds and one point

From and undefeated season

The 1980-81 Noll Varsity Basketball Team enjoyed one of the most successful regular basketball seasons in BNI's history. The Warriors ended regular season play at 19-1, ranked 5th in the State, and ILSC champions (8-0). Only one team in the school's history had a better season record: 1956 team was 20-0.

The 80-81 version of the Warriors was led by tri-captains Greg Kokot, Mike McKenny, and Randy Wingis. Their outstanding leadership and play was the single most important factor that led to the team's success. Strong supportive roles were played by juniors Dwayne Randall and Wayne Anderson and sophomore Chris Ferry. This year's "super sub" was Tim Powell. Tim's outstanding performance of the year was against Norace Mann.

Mike McKenny, BNI's versatile point guard, was the celebrated member of this year's team. Mike was put on almost every All-Star team in Northern Indiana. Randy Wingis also was recognized for his fine play this year by being selected to ILSC All-Star team and numerous other teams. Greg Kokot was BNI's "Mr. Defense." In every game, Greg chose the opposition's leading scorers as his defensive assignment. In almost every game, Greg responded with a superb performance. The greatest asset of the 80-81 Warriors was excellent team play. Even though the Warriors had many exceptional performances from a number of individuals during the year, they never played as individuals.

The 1980-81 Warrior Varsity Basketball Team was another great team in BNI's long history of exceptional basketball teams. So BNI says to the 1980-81 Warriors—Thanks for many thrills—Good Luck to seniors—Greg, Mike, Randy, Tim, Brady, Jamie, and Kelvin. What about next year?

Caution:

Dynamite action

The BNI Warrior Girls' Basketball teams were not State Champs, but they were dynamite under the leadersh,p of new coaches—Mrs. Mary Ellen Smith and Ms. Margie Norton. The varsity squad consisted of three seniors and underclassmen. They were 11-6 during their regular season. They also took their Holiday Tournament.

The strong able-bodied J.V. basketball team, led by co-captains Christina Karr and Debbie Juscik, ended the regular season with an 8-8 record. The J.V.'s also captured the JV Holiday Tournament title. The future for the Girls' Basketball team looks very promising due to the fact that many of this year's experienced players will be returning.

Determination on the mat

Is wrestling what it appears to be—2 people at each other's throats to tear each other's brains out or is there more to it? If you look at wrestling with an open mind you begin to see that wrestling as a sport is ideal. It builds up the body as well as tones all the muscles. It takes hours of work and dedication to build up one's physique. Wrestling is also a good way of self-defense, since it teaches wrestlers moves which easily handicap would-be assailants.

The wrestlers here at Noll are in for the sport of it. Their dedication was rewarded at the Conference meet, where they wrestled their way to victory. At the Regional Meets, they were able to defeat their opponents and claim the title.

To become a wrestler takes a lot of determination. At every meet each wrestler is on his own to fend for himself. He either is forced to accept the humiliation of defeat or the ecstacy of victory, he has no teammates to place the blame on.

Girls get new kick

Bishop Noll instituted a new innovation in girls' sports this year. A girls' soccer team was established as an answer to the ever increasing demand by Noll's feminine students.

In late December a meeting was held for all interested girls. After Christmas vacation practices were held. The basics were mastered and teamwork learned. Suddenly a team was born or rather two teams were born. Each team did well in the their first season of play. Coach Sue Hayes was satisfied with her teams' efforts. She feels that girls' soccer at Noll has a great future.

Not enough kick hurts team

Soccer is definitely one of the fastest sports around. It combines clever footwork with quick thinking. Endurance and ball handling are also important to the game. Always unpredictable and constantly in motion, the soccerball is skillfully guided from player to player heading toward the goal.

Ability, running, endurance and fast play made all the difference to this years' team. Coach Hreha always looks toward the future. He would like to see soccer be one of the most popular sports in the Calumet Region and he wishes far more student body support. He feels that support would raise the incentive of the team and create a more exciting spectator sport at Noll.

Knocking seconds off times

Track and field is a sport which requires self-discipline from each and every individual, as well as, support for the entire team. Throughout the regular track and field season every team member spends many hours afterschool to knock seconds off their times and add inches to their distances.

Each meet gives everyone the chance to prove that the long hours of practice have paid off. Success is not just breaking the tape first but rather doing the best to improve from the last meet.

This year's track and field team has had many successes. Greg Kokot, Mike Mis and John Companik advanced to regionals and John also qualified for state. With only five runners graduating, next year promises to be a winning year for the entire track and field team.

Girl's Track team: (front) Pam Oltmanns, Deanna Haskell, Julie Crist, Karen Wrobel, Ellen O'Rourke, Maria Doppler, Julie Korem, Monica Sabo, Lisa Vargas, (middle) Chris Barrett, Debbie Juscik, Debbie Wadas, Laura Delinsky, Peggy Cafferty, Laura Adzia, Sandy Vera, Angie Opolski, Kathy Quinn, Christina Karr, Mary Sheahan, Karin Riccardi, (back) Diana Martinez, Connie Drabek, Lynn Boyda, Roxanne Powell, Diane Speski, Mary Bohney, Renee Kwiatkowski, Frances Mrvan, Pam Pittman, Cathy Angyus, Joann Sullivan, Donna Bolalek, Dawn Short, Nancy Baletewicz.

From putting to driving

Woods and irons kept swinging as the 1980-1981 Warriors Golf Team drove its way through a respectable season with a 11-12 record. Coached by Rev. Bertino, the linksmen placed second in the conference with a record of 9-5. The overall record may not sound respectable, but then think about the intense concentration the game of golf requires. The player just does not get up there and hit the ball wherever and however he likes, he has set positions and a set number of strokes in which to hit the ball. Every stroke counts.

The portion of the team that will be returning hopes to make the 1982 season even more exciting than this year.

Varsity golf: Jim Joyce, Joe Gardner, Jack Stanis, Kurt Finke, Mark Landsly, Ted Markovich, Coach Fr. Bertino.

Junior varsity golf: Dennis Grzyb, Bill Short, Chris Smulski, George Adams, Greg Radzinski, Greg Purcell, Coach Fr. Bertino.

Fighting until the last point

Anyone can call up a friend and say "how about a friendly game of tennis" but to play on a tennis team takes determination as well as good coordination and well toned muscles. A tennis players reflexes have to be top notch in order to be able to return any serve whether high or low or deep to the left side or deep to the right side. Requirements to play on the team also include being light on your feet and having strong arms.

But, is that all there is to tennis, just hitting the ball back and forth and jumping around? Not quite. The players also have to be acquainted with "tennis talk" or "court jargon". Love is definitely not an affectionate name given to the opponent and a racket doesn't necessarily mean you're making too much noise.

With unexpected defeats to Lake Central Highland and E.C. Washington, the girl's tennis team still went to conference. The girls battled it out until the very end, where they captured the Lake Shore Conference Co-Champion title.

Right: Suzy Chick sets up for her serve.

RBI's keep team from going far

This year's baseball season was a season of rebuilding. With only 2 returning seniors, the Warriors had an inexperienced team. But this factor did not stop them. They finished a close 2nd in the conference and they also won the first game of the sectionals. The building of the team was a long and trying process. From sign-ups early in the year until final cuts, all those who didn't measure up or who didn't care were left behind and those who remained formed the team. The team was led by tri-captains Joe Simmons, Brian Barnes and John Furiak.

The '81 MARQUETTE would like to express our most sincere apology for not including your homeroom picture. There was a mix-up between Root Photographers and our office when pictures were being developed. Most of the homeroom pictures were lost in the mail. Thank you.

I would like to take this space to thank the business staff (especially Kevin Ritzi) of the '81 MARQUETTE for all their hard work. I would like to thank TJG who made my job much easier. I would also like to thank DLS for all his help, guidance and understanding. And finally I would like to thank my grandparents whose patience, kindness and understanding have made this book possible.

Carole K. Morris
Business Manager
'81 MARQUETTE

To our son Dennis,

congratulations on a job well done!!

The most efficient way to HEAT

Surviving the cold and the snow that lasted until April is the easy part, it is the working together, playing together, learning together and being together that offers the challenge. A challenge that makes the school a warmer, more friendly place to be.

A lot was accomplished in one year and would not have been possible if we decided to be cold to each other. A successful homecoming, a revival of Mardi Gras and numerous athletic awards are just a few of the many achievements of this year. Bishop Noll is inflamed with the sensation of being alive.

Whatever we do, a warm glow of excitement escapes. The most efficient way to HEAT is everything the Noll community does, thinks and acts.

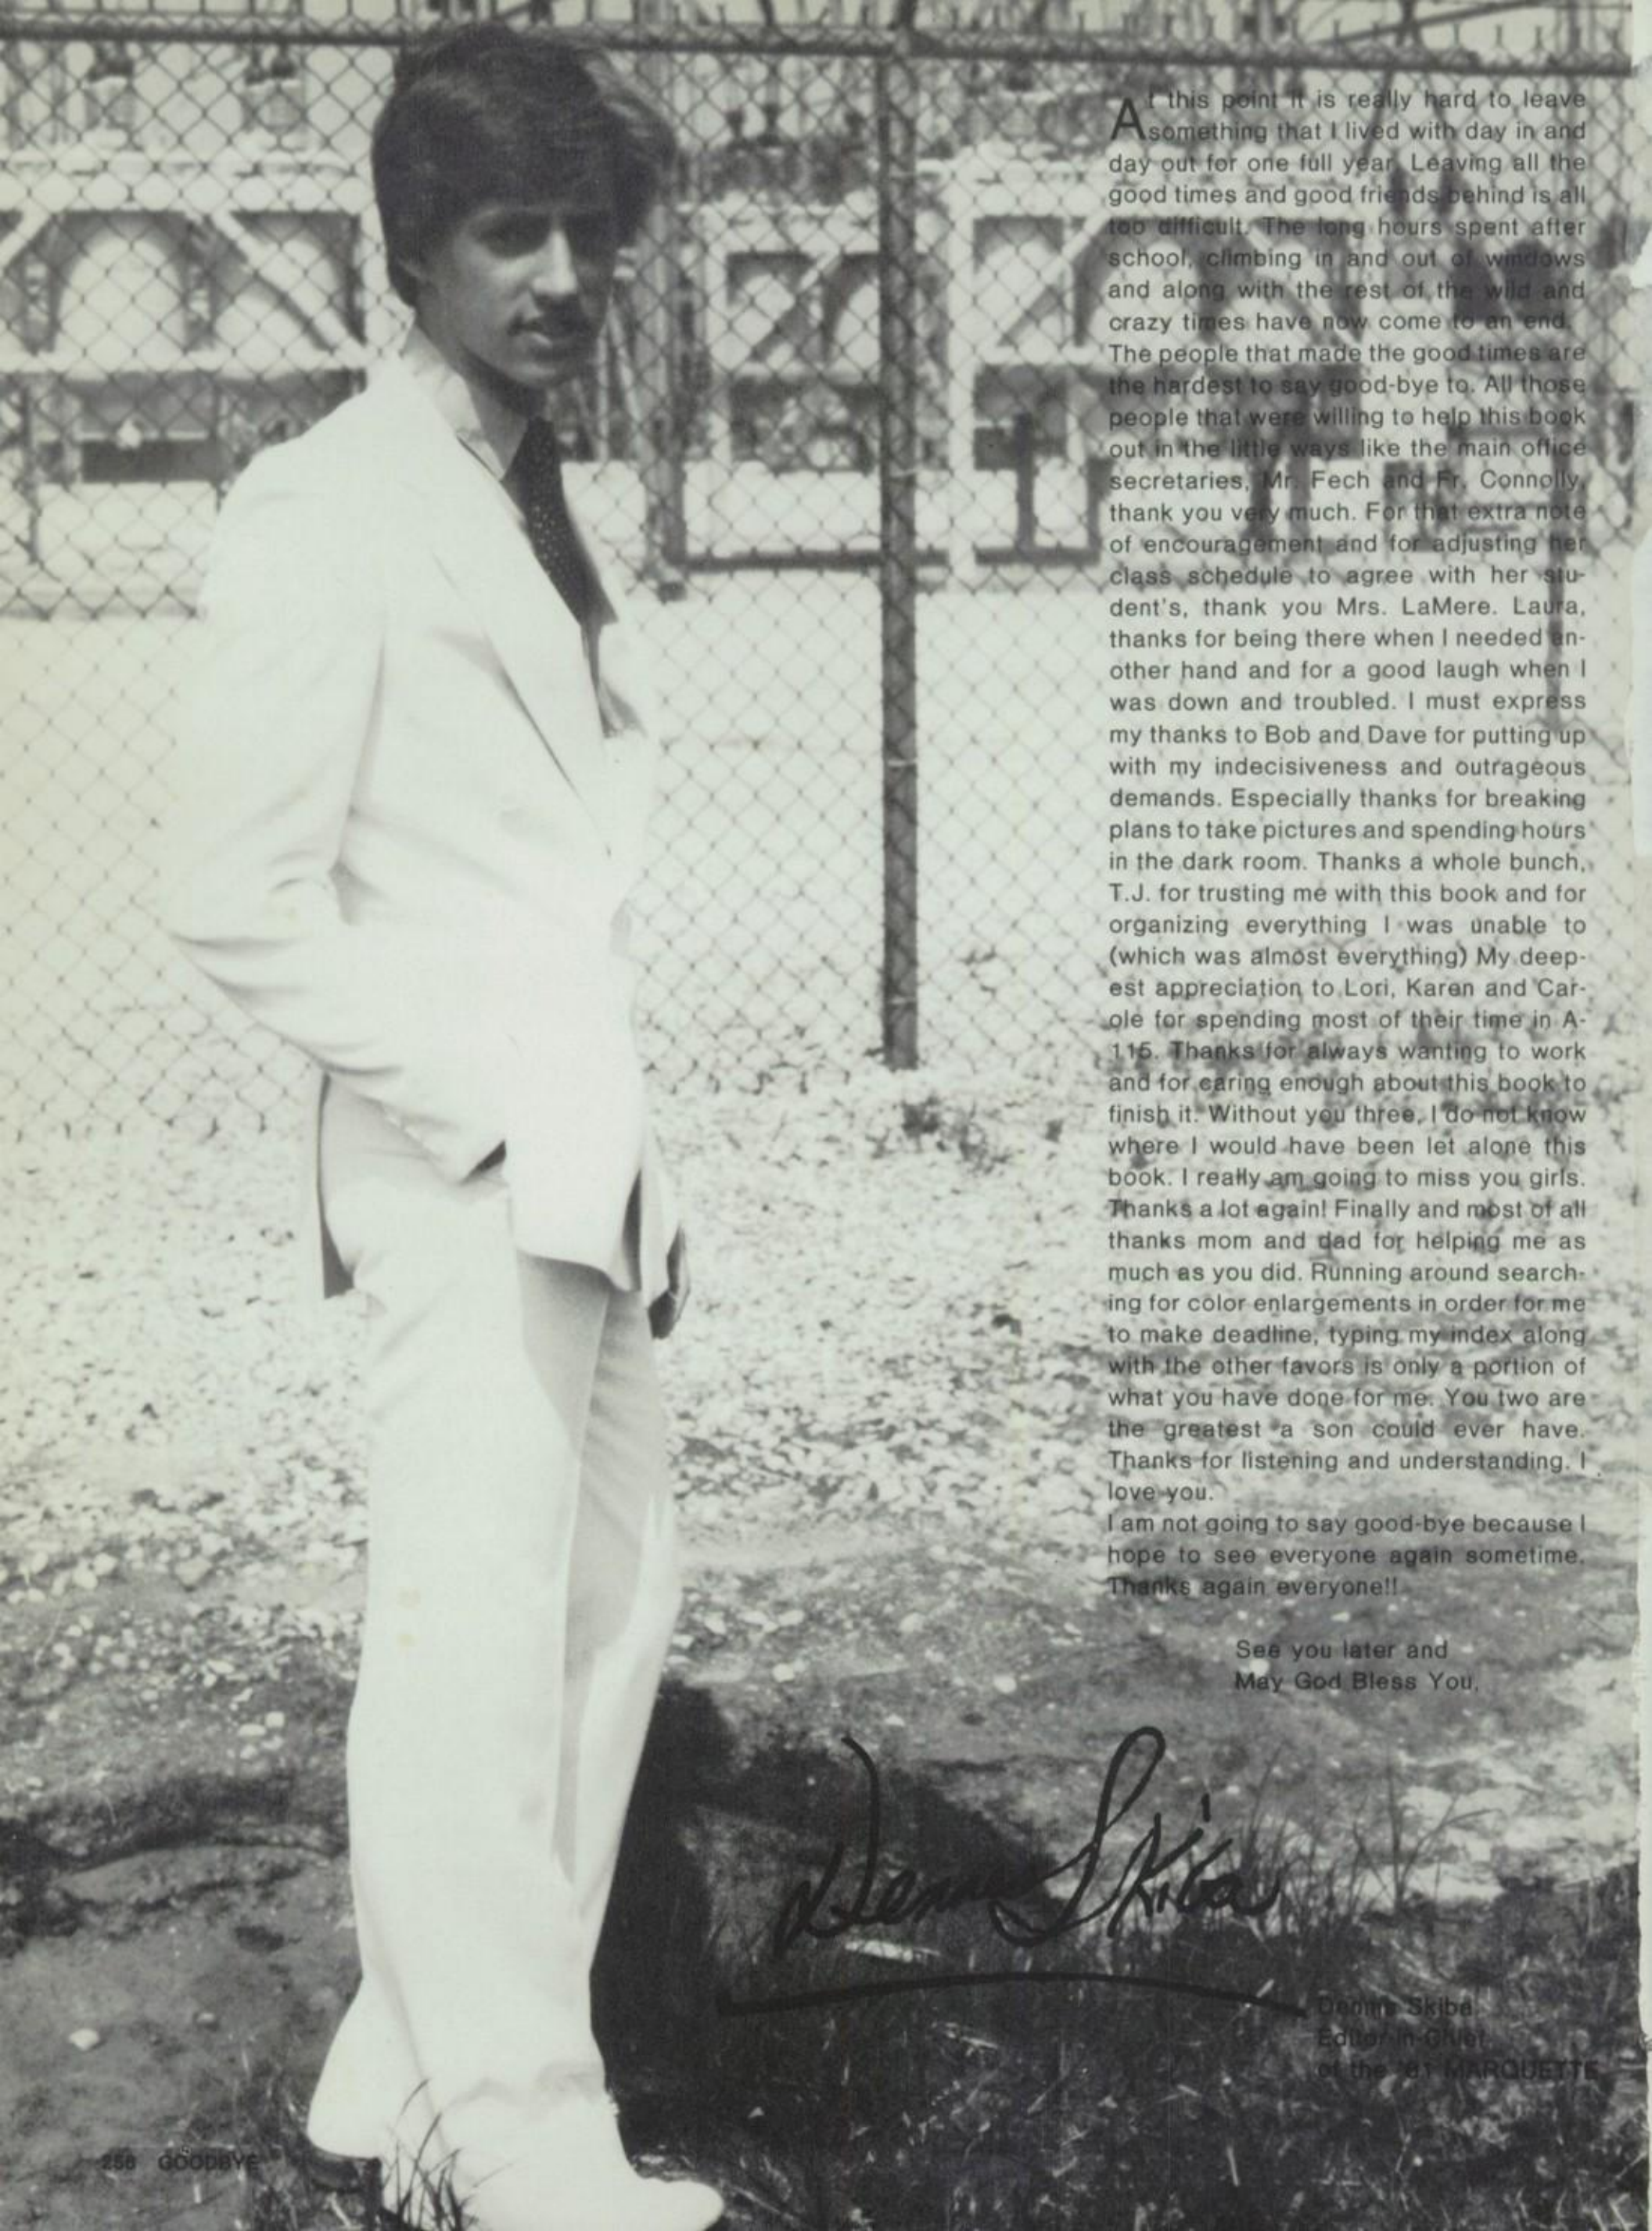
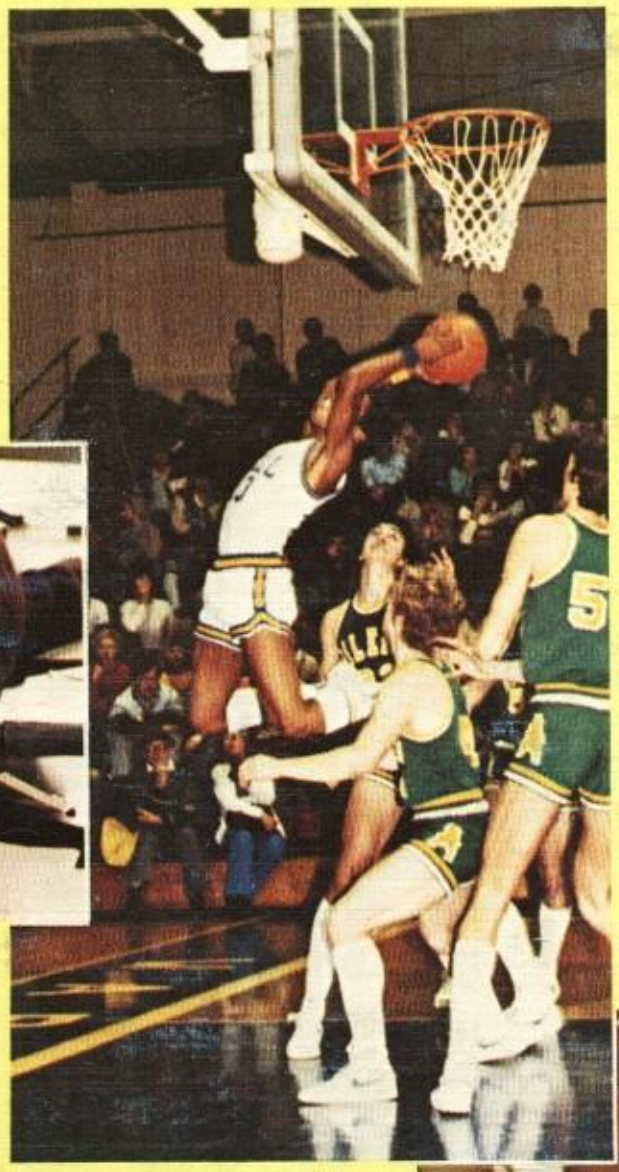
Below: Mrs. Poracky gives a make-up quiz to two of her students.



At this point it is really hard to leave something that I lived with day in and day out for one full year. Leaving all the good times and good friends behind is all too difficult. The long hours spent after school, climbing in and out of windows and along with the rest of the wild and crazy times have now come to an end. The people that made the good times are the hardest to say good-bye to. All those people that were willing to help this book out in the little ways like the main office secretaries, Mr. Fech and Fr. Connolly, thank you very much. For that extra note of encouragement and for adjusting her class schedule to agree with her student's, thank you Mrs. LaMere. Laura, thanks for being there when I needed another hand and for a good laugh when I was down and troubled. I must express my thanks to Bob and Dave for putting up with my indecisiveness and outrageous demands. Especially thanks for breaking plans to take pictures and spending hours in the dark room. Thanks a whole bunch, T.J. for trusting me with this book and for organizing everything I was unable to (which was almost everything) My deepest appreciation to Lori, Karen and Carole for spending most of their time in A-116. Thanks for always wanting to work and for caring enough about this book to finish it. Without you three, I do not know where I would have been let alone this book. I really am going to miss you girls. Thanks a lot again! Finally and most of all thanks mom and dad for helping me as much as you did. Running around searching for color enlargements in order for me to make deadline, typing my index along with the other favors is only a portion of what you have done for me. You two are the greatest a son could ever have. Thanks for listening and understanding. I love you.

I am not going to say good-bye because I hope to see everyone again sometime. Thanks again everyone!!

See you later and
May God Bless You,


Dennis Skiba
